

Customer Communications Management for Healthcare Providers

Customer Communications for Healthcare Providers

When it comes to patient communications, healthcare providers face a unique set of challenges: escalating volumes of medical record data, industry consolidation, ongoing pressure to contain costs, and privacy and regulatory burdens which complicate the communications landscape.

In addition to all of this, healthcare providers must now meet the expectations of digitally-savvy patients who are accustomed to highly personalized customer experiences.

Healthcare organizations need a partner who can help them navigate this digital-first world of patient communications.

DataOceans' CCM Solution Drives Digital Transformation

Customer Communications Management (CCM) technology is the “last mile” in your patient communications process. It improves the patient experience by simplifying document delivery and electronic payments.

Transforming and integrating legacy IT systems is labor-intensive, complex and costly. But DataOceans' Oceanus platform enables organizations to rapidly implement omni-channel communications without the need to piece together a solution internally. It simplifies the digital transformation process, using our best practices deployment model to rapidly integrate data and deploy communications and patient touchpoints. An end-to-end platform, Oceanus provides complete control over messaging while enabling visibility and governance throughout the process. A flexible, scalable architecture provides a stable platform foundation to support future requirements.
